New York Convention Declares in President Griswold Questions Favor of His Candidacy, Platform Adopted at Saratoga Demands Enforcement of the Sunday Laws, Indorses Ballot Reform, and Scores the Administration-Financlai Questions Skillfully Handled.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 17.-The State Republican convention closed its session to-night after following very closely the work mapped out by its leaders. It named this ticket for presentation to the people of the State in November next:

For Secretary of State-John Palmer, For Comptroller-James E. Roberts, of Erie.

For State Treasurer-A. B. Colvin, of Warren. For State Engineer-C. W. Adams, of Oneida For Attorney General-F. E. Hancock, of Onondaga.

For Judge of the Court of Appeals-Celora E. Martin, of Broome. The platform demands enforcement of the Sunday liquor law and preservation of the Sabbath. It reores the Democratic administration for failing to defend the rights of American citizens resident or traveling in foreign countries and for permitting foreign coun tries to encroach on the Western hemisphere

The tariff and the bandling of the de ficiency question by the last Democratic Congress received condemnation. A sound and stable currency, giving the people a dollar's worth for a dollar, is indorsed.

BALLOT REFORM ENDORSED.

The Raines ballot reform law is pointed to as the best enactment for ballst reform yet passed in this State. The platform further sets forth that the demands of the people in the city of New York have been granted in reform legisla-

That it was a close following of the work napped out was evident from the fact of the security of the State ticket being made possible by the vote of one man. When the morning sun broke over Sara-toga it saw such from-bound plans for the convention that it was conceded that there would be no friction, and that the plan of the State committee would be carried out. After the opening session there ap-peared on the horizon a cloud of discontent that grew so rapidly that at 3 o'clock the fate of the State officers seemed to be sealed against renomination. The trou-ble arose over the contest for seats in the first district and hinged on the seating of the contesting delegation, headed by Congressman Mahany. ALL SNAGS AVERTED With everything running smoothly the leaders were saddenly confronted with the statement made by State Committeeman George Urban and Scouter Pearsons that if the Mahany delegation was seated the Eric county delegation would leave the convention, and Mr. Roberts' name would

He also suggested the propriety of annual meetings hereafter and the reduction of the membership fee. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were

Where the Division Is. Editor Times: As much has been spoken tention of the excise board to refuse license in that section to saloon-keepers, I would like to be permitted space to correct a false impression in the public mind in regard to the boundary lines of that nefarious locality.

Prudish people, who are too nice to call things by their right names, usually refer to and this indefinite manner of expressing the name of the place gives rise to the opinion that all places south of the Avenue, as well as the south side of the Avenue itself, are a part of that infernal section.

This is very wrong; does an injustice to the business people and residents of a re-spectable section of the city, and I feel error when the facts are made known to dents of this city, of which your cor respondent claims the henor of being one, extends between Ninth and Fourteenth streets on the east and west and by C and D on the nerth. These are the boundary lines of the "Division," and the south side of the Avenue and E street are just as free from the meral torpitude of that vile spot as Iowa Circle or Connecticat avenue. The area of the "Division" is already too large without accrediting it with the addition of respectable neighborhoods, thereby de-preciating properts ewned and occupied by the Anacostia Railway Men.

Asked to Reply to a Series of Interrogatories Affecting the Manage ment of a Car Line-The Employes Are Fearful That He Contemplates a Move Upon Them.

There is good reason for believing that some decisive action as to the future of his road will be taken by President Griswold, of the Anacostia line, before the first of the coming-month. A Times reporter ran across a circular letter of the president yesterday, in which he asks some questions which indicate the proposed change.

The more important of these questions, which are addressed to the employes, are as follows: "Pirst. Which would you consider the best service to the public, two-horse cars every twelve minutes, or one-horse cars every six minutes? What do you consider the greatest good to the greatest number, the imployment of seventy-six men at low wages, thirty-eight men at fair wages, or nineteen at large wages? Third. In reducing the number of cars and the number of your employes, how would you accomplish it? By drawing lots: by taking alternate names; by retaining the oldest; by retaining those who had hest served you?

r no inspection? "Fifth. Do good-looking drivers in unirm, well-kept horses and clean cars induce riding?"

"Fourth. Do you believe in open, secret,

The other questions relate to the drivers and conductors' opinions as to the cost of equipment and the deterioration of stock. WHAT THE MEN SAY.

There is a great deal of speculation among the men as to what all this means. Some of them understand that the questions indicate a sweeping reduction of the number of men and that the president is desirious of having men to be parties to the reduction, "The way some of us look at it is this,"

said one of the men last night. "We have been given until the 21st to make answers to these questions, although we are not told that we will be obliged to answer them. "I think that the second question is a very crafty one, and the most important of all. Mr. Griswold, by those questions, has certainly, to my mind, made it plain that there will be at some near day a reduction of the force. He may put it on the ground that the ompany is making no money; he may put it on any other. knows that if he throws a lot of men out of a job there will be a kick. By this vote of the men, and that is really what it is, be will feel justified and will tell the public that the men agreed to the change baving had plenty of time to consider it.

He knows that no one will vote for seventy-six men at low wages because low wages means no living at all. "There is a chance that there will be a goodvote for thirty-eight menat good wages and the wages is thrown out as a bait. And there is something very tempting in the offer to run the road with nineteen men at large wages. He counts on each man hoping that he will be one of the nineteen.

"Then in the third question it seems to be a fair proposition that he shall retain those who had served him best, but he will be the judge of that fact. In general we don't like to answer the questions at all and I don't suppose that many will send in re-plies. We might be helping to get ourselves out of a job. WHAT HIS OBJECT IS

"Another thing is this: If Mr. Gris wold was fair in these questions he would have declared, in the paper, what his object was. It is plain to us that he is asking be withdrawn from the convention, thus | questions to which he already has the an run a road under any of the conditions he proposes, it is he himself."

What are you going to do about it? be signed to any great extent and that will

"If Mr. Griswold should have in his pomession our answer at the time he wants to make arbitrary changes affecting the men and there should be a protest, he would merely produce this vote of the men and they would be debarred from further protest. Our mouths are closed. Our policy is to ray nothing and to wait

"We have made complaint to him within the past week of certain cases, in which we consider that he has dealt unfairly with our men, and he has not shown a disposition to treat the cares promptly or in accord-ance with the facts."

The trouble was on account of suspending Drivers Lusby, Jones, and Moore. The men were put off from periods of one month to two months, and the affair being reported to the Protective Street Railway Union resterday, a committee from that body, consisting of President Laurence and Mr. Casey, called on President Gris-wold and put the matter before that official, who told President Laurence to put his grievance in writing, which will be done. The men claim the punishment is Harry K. Balch and George W. Day, the two young New Englanders who passed a bogus check on Mr. David Carrier, of the Harry K. Balch and George W. Day, the War Department, for $100, about a month ago, as exclusively stated in The Times, were brought to this city last night from Baltit • re by Detective George W. Boyd. For the past twenty-one days they have. been in jail in that city awaiting the action of the grand jury on a charge of beating hotels. They were indicted there yesterday for the offense, and at once turned over to the Washington authorities.

Both of the young fellows are of good New England families - Balch is from Harmover. New Hampshire, where his father is a prominent railroad contractor, and Day is from Haverhill, Mass. The families of both are wealthy and influential.

Day's mother has written to him from his home and is expected here in a few days. It is probable that the matter here will be settled up, but the two may have ot serve time for their Baltimore escapso Both are good-looking, well educated young fellows, and have very little of the criminal in their appearance or actions. They are very penitent lads just now, and if they get out of their present scrape they will swear to tread in straight paths only for the rest of their existence.
